Now, after reading Bill Carson's re-worked "Show No Fear: A Bouncer's Diary - Redux," I can't get those gatekeepers out of my mind. I am visiting a club on New Year's Ever and I know that I will be paying MUCH more attention to the man at the door than I ever did before.... And I am not quite sure that is a good thing.

This book is full of vivid encounters, unsavoury characters and ripe language, told in a personable manner with a measure of wit. There has always been a market for this type of true crime book and Show No Fear Redux makes all the right noises, and is a fast paced compact read. To put it bluntly Carson's book is the dog's B*cks!

Show No Fear Redux a Bouncers Diary is basically an autobiography of the authors own accounts of his time as a bouncer. I have to say there is a lot more to being a bouncer than I first thought, at least to be a good one anyway. The author walks us through his teenage years when he was first introduced to karate and starting his bouncer career.

This Southern Water Tribe boy was one of the boys Sokka attempted to train as a warrior in the Southern Water Tribe. Like the other young boys, his age hindered his ability to excel in Sokka's lessons. After Sokka finished giving a group of Southern Water Tribe children an inspiring speech about being courageous, this boy raised his hand and stated he had to use the restroom. Sokka denied his ...
